_____ , _____

To Whom It May Concern,

In light of impending mass military base closings, I am writing you today to enthusiastically recommend your hiring of _____ for any of the countless thrilling positions currently available at fine Wal-Mart stores all across this Godly country.

_____ reported to me for indirectly from _____, where s/he was employed for _____ years, most recently as _____.

Please know that by having not been court martialed or dishonorably discharged, _____ has consistently embodied every military recruiter's dream candidate: a non-questioning, non-faggy-acting adult demonstrating the unique ability to simultaneously breathe and possess a beating heart. And while _____'s considerable experience suckling greedily at the military-industrial welfare teat may strike you as suspect, I assure you that this near-fatal shortcoming is more than offset by _____'s aptitude for the covert subversion of the Geneva Conventions, an automaton-like predilection for repetitive tasks, and a proven affinity for militant groupthink.

I trust that _____ will make a invaluable addition to Wal-Mart's union-free, yet more-than-adequately-compensated corporate family.

Yours Sincerely,

George W. Bush
CEO, United States Armed Forces, Inc.
